1. Introduction

The number of personal name variants in Arabic is very large. The CJK Dictionary Institute (CJKI) has been using various techniques have been used to collect and detect named entities and process name variants, some of which are described in The Role of Lexical Resources in CJK NLP Applications and at Named Entity Contextual Clues (NECC). The number of applications that require the ability to process Arabic names is rapidly increasing in various sectors of the IT and security industries, including anti-money laundering, security applications and information retrieval. To meet these needs, CJKI is maintaining the world's largest database of Arab personal name and their variants, referred to as the Database of Arab Names (DAN).

2. Database of Arab Names (DAN)

DAN is a comprehensive database of Arab names and their romanized variants. It contains a large and constantly growing collection of romanized Arabic names mapped to the original Arabic script. DAN is undergoing extensive proofreading by our team of native speaker editors on the basis of over 25 million romanized variants derived from a large variety of sources, including websites, corpora, books, phone directories, rule-based generation, dictionaries and encyclopedias.

On March 31, 2008, CJKI announced the release of DAN version 2, a major expansion that covered approximately 1.5 million entries, the largest database of its kind in the world.

Currently (November 2008), coverage has exceeded 2.4 million entries. Our team of editors and programmers are vigorously working on further expansion and validation, and by April 2010 we expect to complete DAN v3.0, to cover about five and six million validated entries (uniqueness is counted on Arabic + Headword).

In addition to comprehensive coverage, DAN offers unique features such as: every Arabic name is manually vocalized by our team of native Arab editors, and all romanized variants are validated for their frequency of occurrence on the web. The database contains a web frequency statistics for each of the millions of variants, adding great value for security applications.

See also <http://www.cjk.org/cjk/arabic/araborth.htm> and <http://www.cjk.org/cjk/arabic/dan.htm> .

3. Key Features of DAN

- Currently (DAN v2.x) contains about 2.4 million validated romanized name variants, to be expanded to over five million entries in DAN v3.0 by April 2010.
- Ideal for security and AML applications as well as MT and IR.
- Constantly expanding based on raw data consisting of more than 25,000,000 variants.
- Proofread by native editors trained in Arabic phonology.
- Validated against the web and corpora.
- Arabic names are fully vocalized and mapped to their Arabic spelling variants.
- Web-based frequency statistics for each name variant.
- Supports various romanization systems, such as the official IC standard.
- Fully supports OFAC names, their official aliases and unofficial variants.
- Various attributes such as TYPE (surname, etc.) and GENDER.

4. Practical Applications

Processing and normalizing names and their numerous variants useful in a variety of real world applications, such as:

- Security applications such as criminal watch lists and retail fraud.
- Cyber security applications such as for preventing identity theft.
- Law enforcement applications including most-wanted lists and deportation lists.
- Border Security and immigration control applications.

- Information Retrieval (IR), such as query processing by search engines.
- Named Entity Recognition (NER) and information extraction.
- Machine Translation (MT), as for transcribing unknown proper nouns.
- Anti-money laundering (AML) and fraud detection by financial institutions.

Since this database includes a large number of spelling variants (some names have over 1000 variants), it is of special interest to security agencies and security applications such as anti-money laundering, making it easy to find names spelled in a multitude of ways (e.g., Usama bin Ladin, Osama ben Laden, Osama bin Laden, etc.). It is interesting to note that the “underwear bomber” Umar Farouk Abdulmutallab might have been caught with the help of DAN. The document mutallab.xls shows sixty variants of that name that can be identified with the help of DAN.

To further enhance DA’s capabilities, we have expanded the database to cover the Arabic names listed in the OFAC (Office of Foreign Assets Control) list, along with their orthographic variants well beyond the OFAC. This is referred to as Expanded OFAC and is described in detail in <http://www.cjk.org/cjk/arabic/xofac.htm>. The OFAC database is a list of individuals and organizations that pose a threat to foreign policy and/or national security of the US that plays a major role in financial institutions and security agencies throughout the world.

5. Specifications

DAN data is normally provided as a plain text file encoded in UTF-8 with fields delimited by tabs, or in any other encoding and format by request. The format, data fields and other linguistic and technical specifications are determined on the basis of the customer’s needs. That is, we do not provide an off-the-shelf data package, but customize the database and fine tune it to the specific requirements or application.

Below is a brief description of the data fields that can be provided in the DAN database. Other fields not shown here, such as Name Probability (the probability of a name being a general vocabulary item) can also be provided. This is described in the document dana_freq.pdf.

No.	Field	Description
1	ID	A unique ID for each Arabic name in Arabic script.
2	SUBID	A code that together with the idea uniquely identifies the Arabic + romanized name combination.
3	HEADWORD	One of the romanized versions of an Arabic personal name.

4	ARABIC	Unvocalized Arabic name in UTF-8.
5	OFAC	Flag indicating whether the name (name element) is in present in OFAC. [O] Name appears in OFAC as is [V] Variant of name that appears in OFAC
6	ICS	Transcription following the widely-accepted Intelligence Community Standard romanization.
7	BUCKWALTER	Transliteration using the Buckwalter system.
8	TYPE	A code describing the kind of name (often unavailable and not always reliable): [SN] surname [gn] given name of unknown gender [B] both surname and given name [U] name of unknown type
9	GENDER	A code indicating the gender of the name (often unavailable and not always reliable). [M] male given name [F] female given name [B] both male and female given name [U] name of unknown gender [NA] not applicable if surname or gender unknown.
10	FREQUENCY	Number of web occurrences for the headword as a string. Not 100% reliable because it might be a word in some other language by coincidence, especially for short headwords. [nnnnnnn] Web frequency [U] Unknown

6. Maintenance and Upgrades

1. Minor Upgrades. CJKI will provide free minor (corrections small expansion) upgrades when they become available, or fix errors and make minor additions, free of charge.
2. Major upgrades. Major upgrades, such as a significant expansion of entries, need to be negotiated separately.
3. OFAC Updates. CJKI can provide regular updates to reflect changes and additions to OFAC and other "bad guy" lists like the UN list.
4. Merge New Names. Another of maintenance is the merging of new names or name variants not in DAN. That is, if your company sends us Arabic names not found in DAN nor in our updates, we will merge those names into our data provide you with an update of DAN that includes those names in the format of your choice.

7. Arabic Place Names

CJKI can provide a database of Arabic place names and their variants, with focus on selected Middle East countries including Iran, Syria, Iraq, Afghanistan and Palestine. A sample of this is shown in APLACSAM.U8.

8. Support and Consulting

CJKI will provide, free of charge, technical and linguistic support for the specific data modules and services that your company licenses from CJKI.

CJKI also provides technical and linguistic support related to the development and fine tuning of systems that incorporate our Arabic data. This could include providing information and reports on linguistic and technical issues, especially as they relate to Arabic information processing and linguistic issues related to the Arabic script and Arabic name variation.

9. Business Model

We are quite flexible in all matters related to the business model and licensing fees. These are determined on a case-by-case basis depending on the customer's specific needs and budget. Though our fees are quite reasonable, they can be significantly lowered for internal (rather than commercial) use. For more details on our business model, please see:

http://www.cjk.org/cjk/arabic/order_e.htm

Typically, our contracts normally include the following basic terms, all of course subject to negotiation.

1. Non-exclusive worldwide license
2. Free minor (corrections or small expansion) upgrades when available
3. Major upgrades (significant expansion) need to be negotiated separately
4. Various kinds of maintenance, such as OFAC updates
5. Reasonable free technical and linguistic support
6. The data may be used for commercial applications.
7. The data may not be relicensed to third parties

10. Data Sample

The first six fields described in Section 3 above are shown below for the 1000 variants of the popular name عبدالرحيم Abd Al Raheem. A sample of other fields is available upon request.
